

Who May Use this Certification

If you are an officeholder who already filed a Form 700, candidate statement of economic interests, in November or December of 2003⁴ for a March 28, 2004⁵ election, you may file the Form 700 Certification instead of filing a 2003⁴ Form 700 annual statement.

Why File the Form 700 Certification

Form 700 Certification allows an incumbent to reaffirm (or supplement) the candidate statement instead of completing an entire annual statement. The incumbent should review his or her candidate statement of economic interests and determine whether the candidate statement contains all economic interests required by the annual statement.

The interests disclosed on the candidate statement of economic interests include:

- income (including loans and gifts) received during the 12 months prior to filing the candidate statement; and
- investments, interests in real property, and business positions held on the date of filing the declaration of candidacy.

The requirements for the annual statement are different. Interests disclosed on the annual statement include:

- income (including loans and gifts) received during the reporting period (in most cases, January 1, 2003⁴ through December 31, 2003⁴); and
- investments, interests in real property, and business positions held during the reporting period.

If there are discrepancies between interests already disclosed on the candidate statement and interests required by the annual statement, the incumbent may attach schedules to the certification disclosing interests required by the annual statement. If there are no discrepancies, the incumbent can certify that the requirements of the annual statement are met by the candidate statement.

How It Works

In November 2003⁴, Councilmember Knox filed her candidate statement of economic interests, along with other election documents, so that she would be listed as a candidate on the March 8, 2004⁵ ballot. In December, Knox received a gift of two tickets, valued at $75, to a theater performance and purchased $3,000 worth of stock in a Fortune 500 company. She must attach Schedule A-1 and Schedule E when she files her Form 700 Certification.

While reviewing the candidate statement of economic interests she filed in November 2003⁴, Mayor Warden confirms that it accurately reflects all interests required by the annual statement of economic interests. Rather than filing an annual statement of economic interests, Mayor Warden checks the box on the Form 700 Certification saying that no amendment is required and submits only the certification.

Where and When to File

State offices	Your agency
Judicial offices	Clerk of your court
County offices	Your county clerk
City offices	Your city clerk
Multi-county offices	Your agency

File no Later Than:

State offices	March 1, 200 ⁴ -5
Judicial offices	March 1, 2004 ⁵
County/City offices	April 1, 2004 ⁵

How to Complete

- Enter your full name, mailing address, daytime telephone number, and fax number or e-mail address, if any.
- Provide the name of the agency and position of the office you are currently holding.
- List the name of the agency and position for the office you are seeking if it is different than the office you hold. (For example, you are currently a council member who is running for mayor.)
- Review the candidate statement you previously filed. Mark one box on the certification section to indicate:
 - that you are not required to amend your previously filed candidate statement; or
 - that you are amending your candidate statement to disclose additional interests.

Be sure to check applicable schedules on the schedule summary section and attach the schedules.

- Sign and date the form in ink. An unsigned statement is not considered filed.

For detailed information on reporting requirements and the Information Practices Act of 1977, see the Form 700 Instructions and Appendix.
